

Aspiring Leaders

£ £700 Per Person (exc. VAT)

 2 Day Course

A foundational leadership development program designed to help individual contributors make the transition from managing tasks to leading others. The program focuses on developing the individual as a leader positioned to take on leading small teams or other individual contributors.

This open programme is recommended for individual contributors, aspiring leaders, supervisors and high potentials looking to make the first step into management and leadership. Through developing the appropriate skills, knowledge and behaviours you will develop a “leadership mindset” and learn the core skills of self and organisation leadership.

This course will ensure learners are able to:

- Define your own purpose and vision for aspiring to be an effective leader.
- Discover your own motivations and values and connect these to your own vision and purpose.
- Build basic leadership and management skills and knowledge.
- Develop the “leadership mindset” and the empowering beliefs necessary to support you in being an effective leader.
- Learn how to prioritise and plan your time, enabling you to complete your own tasks and constantly move forward towards achieving your vision.
- Develop effective communication skills through learning the underlying principles of effective communication.
